

HIGHLIGHTS from your Dean, Emily Quinn Pou

In the fall publication of HIGHLIGHTS my letter to you contained the information regarding the introduction of the Dean's Aide Program in the College of Home Economics. The six students selected and presented at the Annual Meeting during Homecoming in November 1979 are individuals you will be proud to have represent the College of Home Economics. They are outstanding academically, delightfully vivacious and very attractive. You will be interested, I am sure, in the picture contained in the newsletter along with the brief biographical information on each individual. We look forward to the Dean's Aides representing the College with visitors on the campus and in their contacts out in the State.

The current status of the Ph.D. proposal in Foods and Nutrition is that after having been approved by the faculty of the College it was transmitted to the Dean of the Graduate School for further consideration. We are hopeful that the deliberations will result in a favorable action in the near future and be transmitted to the University administration.

The action of your Executive Committee of the Home Economics Alumni Association in establishing a separate Home Economics Alumni Weekend will permit the sequence of activities cited in President Kellogg's letter to you. The faculty and students on campus are very excited at the prospect of having this special weekend with the presentation of the association awards making this a very outstanding occasion. It will also permit individuals whose schedules will not permit attendance for the entire time to attend for the portion of time feasible. The program committee consisting of the District Directors and Dr. Wanda Grogan selected "Stress" as the theme for the weekend. You will note from the program included in the newsletter that the banquet program and seminar will provide interesting, informative and entertaining sessions. We are looking forward to this first Home Economics Alumni Weekend. We eagerly look forward to being with those of you who can be present.

HIGHLIGHTS on your Officers

HIGHLIGHTS from your President, Gloria Doster Kellogg

What an honor to be elected to serve such a distinguished group! Thank you for your confidence. Let me solicit your support and help.

In our short history, we have tried several different approaches to the annual meeting of our association. The executive board has planned an exciting meeting this spring that we hope will not conflict with any other professional activity. The program will begin with a reception and awards banquet on Friday evening, followed by a seminar on "Managing Stress" on Saturday. A short business meeting will follow the seminar and the weekend will be culminated by the awards luncheon. The program has been planned so that members may attend all or any portion of the weekend. In this issue, you will find the pre-registration form to be returned to Wanda Grogan by April 18. Please mark May 2-3 on your calendar and plan to join us for a beautiful spring weekend in Athens.

Four awards were approved at the annual meeting in the fall and chairperson Carolyn Ellington is accepting nominations for each of them at this time. Look in this issue for information on eligibility and nominations. The Distinguished Alumni and Friend of Home Economics Awards will be presented at the banquet, and the Superior Service award will be presented at the luncheon during our annual meeting. A special reception will be planned during Homecoming 1980 for presenting the Honor Hall Award. The following persons have been appointed to serve on the awards committee: Carolyn Ellington, Chairperson, Bess Aderhold, Aleene Cross, Beverly Fulford, Opal Ward Jones, Jessie Mize, Sue Stanford, Alva Youngner.

One important item of business to be considered during the annual meeting will be an amendment of the bylaws. Please read the article in this issue and be ready to vote on this change at our business meeting on May 3.

Two of our directors have resigned. Dot Dusenberry, School Food Service, Dekalb County, 4th Congressional District, and Leah Herring, Georgia Power Company, Rome, 7th Congressional District, have been appointed to fill these vacancies. They will serve with Martha Jones and Janice Wood through the 1981 annual meeting. Myrtice Edenfield, State Department of Education, Metter, 1st District, and Harriet Hulsey, private Business, Gainesville, 9th District, have been appointed as directors to serve 1980-82. Additional directors will be appointed prior to the annual meeting.

Three projects that we are presently involved in are redecorating and converting the lounge in Dawson Hall into our Honor Hall, writing a History of Home Economics at the University of Georgia and establishing a portrait fund to honor each of our Deans with a portrait in the Honor Hall. There are presently portraits in Dawson Hall Lounge of two of the three former deans. If you would like to serve on a committee or make a contribution for either of these projects, please let me know.

An active member of the University of Georgia Alumni Association is defined in our bylaws as a graduate or employee who makes an annual contribution of $10.00 or more. You may earmark your contribution for "home economics." Please consider making an annual contribution a part of your budget. (Additional information on contributions is included in the newsletter.)

Again, mark your calendar, send in your reservation, and come to Athens May 2 and 3 for an exciting Alumni Weekend!

Todd Scholarship

Friends of Miss Elizabeth Todd have established a scholarship fund in her memory. Miss Todd taught home economics education from 1934 to 1954. The scholarship fund was established to provide a full-year scholarship to a graduate student in home economics education. The award is scheduled to begin in the fall of 1980, depending on contributions to the fund. Contributions may be made to the University of Georgia Foundation—Todd Scholarship Fund.

HIGHLIGHTS on the Dean's Aides

Charlotte Deann Bell is from Hartwell, Georgia. Deann is a junior, majoring in Furnishings and Interiors, and is a member of the UGA Compass Club and ASID.

Beverly Ann Guined, a senior from Reynolds, Georgia, is a Home Economics Education major and a member of SHEA, Phi U, Ag Hill Representative, 4-H, and Phi Beta Lambda.

Lydia Leigh Beavers, a senior from Alpharetta, Georgia, is a Home Economics Education major and a member of Phi Upsilon Omicron, Blue Key National Honor Fraternity, Mortar Board, Omicron Delta Kappa, Ag Hill, and Collegiate 4-H Club.

Pamela Diane Braden is a senior from Rome, Georgia, majoring in Fashion Merchandising. She is a member of GSHEA, AHEA, Delta Gamma sorority, Delta Gamma Activities Chairman 1979-80, Homecoming Committee, Foundation Dinner Committee and is a volunteer for the Recording for the Blind.

Anne Elizabeth Tyler, a junior from Athens, is a Dietetics and Institution Management major and a member of the Student Dietetics Association, Student-Faculty Freshman Representative 1977-78, Z-Club, Alpha Lambda Delta Honorary, Alpha Chi Omega Scholarship Chairman and Deaconess at First Christian Church.

Caroline Frey Annandale, a junior majoring in Furnishings and Interiors, is from Marietta, Georgia. She is a member of Phi Mu sorority and participates in Campus Crusade.

HIGHLIGHTS from Clothing, Textiles, Interiors and Furnishings

The Department of Clothing, Textiles, Interiors and Furnishings is continually striving to update its course offerings. This winter quarter, an in-service, weekend course, entitled "Contemporary Topics in Furnishings and Interiors," is being taught by Dr. Mary Ellen Blackburn. The focus of the course is on current research and development in furnishings and interiors. Thirty students, including educators from throughout Georgia, are enrolled.

In addition, one of the new textile science courses, "Physical Analysis of Textiles," is being taught by Dr. Kathryn Jakes this winter quarter. The course deals with the physical properties of fibers and includes topics such as tensile properties, elastic recovery, thermal properties and comfort.

The department also sponsored a U. S. Study Tour for furnishings and interiors majors for the three weeks of August 19 through September 9. The tour, coordinated and directed by Dr. Mary Ellen Blackburn, included stops in High Point, Williamsburg, Washington, New York and Boston.

During the fall quarter, 12 undergraduate fashion merchandising majors participated in internship experiences in Atlanta and Athens. The students interned at Rich's, Lord and Taylor, Belk's, The Limited, J. C. Penney, Sears, J. P. Allen and the UGA Cooperative Extension Service. Ms. Rosalie Splitter coordinated the internship experience for the department.

The research activities of the department have continued with a comprehensive study involving five research faculty in the department. The joint proposal incorporates a consumer and laboratory study of the flammability of upholstered furniture. A survey will be conducted to assess the awareness of the problem by consumers and to determine the possible disadvantages of flame resistant furniture related to cost, limited fabric and furniture styles, and the presence of flame retardant chemicals. The laboratory aspect will investigate possible flame retardant treatments including methods which provide physical barriers to combustion.

Dr. Mary Ellen Blackburn has received $2500 funding from UGA Research Fund to study the "Comparison of Foam Backed Versus Unlined Drapery Fabrics in Relation to Thermal Insulation, Strength and Color Retention." The funding has allowed the purchasing of a QUV Accelerated Weathering Tester, which simulates the effects of sunlight. The equipment is to be used in this study, as well as a variety of other research projects in the CTI department.

Dr. Mary Ann Moore will initiate a research study that will compare the effects of soil and color retention, abrasion resistance, and resiliency of selected carpets. The carpets will be installed in a home living environment to determine if there is a correlation between data derived from carpet specimens exposed to wear in laboratory tests and data derived from carpets exposed to wear in a home living environment.

The effects of low temperature laundering related to different fabrics and whiteness, reflectance and soiling affinity currently is being investigated by Dr. Theresa A. Perenich. In addition, research is being conducted on new identification techniques for fluorescent whitening agents.

HIGHLIGHTS from the Foods and Nutrition Department

The Department of Foods and Nutrition will have a strong representation of both graduate students and faculty at the annual meeting of the American Institute of Nutrition in Anaheim, California, in April. The nutrition meeting is held in conjunction with the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology. Nine graduate students and two faculty members will present papers. The following will give the focus of each of the presentations and also serve to highlight the nutrition research currently in progress in the College of Home Economics at the University of Georgia.

Dorothy Bouillon and Alice Thomson, graduate students with Dr. Berdanier, will present papers. The research in Dr. Berdanier's laboratories is directed toward understanding how the body uses glucose for energy or for the synthesis of fat. Under certain conditions, the body has difficulty using glucose and diabetes results. Dorothy Bouillon has been studying the relationship between adrenal steroid hormones and fat synthesis. Under stress conditions (adrenal stimulation) some persons have a tendency to gain weight. Most of the fatty acids that appear in these adipose fat deposits are actually synthesized in the liver. Hence, her interest has centered about the events in liver metabolism that are controlled by the adrenal hormones. There are still many things that are not well understood about the control of liver metabolism—for one thing there are major differences observed at different times of day. Glycogen deposition, cell division and other events are highly cyclic, and in order to understand hepatic metabolism, one must deal with these cyclic events. The paper that Dorothy Bouillon will present is "Effect of Adrenalectomy and Starvation-Refeeding on the Diurnal Variation in Hepatic Glycogen Levels," co-authored with Carolyn D. Berdanier.

Mrs. Alice R. Thomson is studying the metabolic events that lead to maturity-onset diabetes. Dr. Berdanier's laboratory has an unusual strain of rat, the BHE rat, which develops maturity-onset diabetes. By comparing it with other rat strains (such as the Wistar rat) one can gain insight into the changes in cellular metabolism that tend to come before the disease, maturity-onset diabetes, becomes apparent. Mrs. Thomson's research will assist in the understanding of how this disease develops and will provide possible diagnostic tools for its early identification. The paper to be presented by Mrs. Thomson is "Studies in Adenine Nucleotide Flux in Isolated Hepatic Mitochondria from the BHE and Wistar Rat," jointly authored with Susan McNamara and Carolyn D. Berdanier.

Dr. William O. Caster's research interest is focusing upon study of human nutrition problems. With a new computer he will be studying methods of handling and evaluating community nutrition data. His student, Ms. M. Kay Mihelich, will be presenting the paper "Total Food Intakes of Older Persons Enrolled in a Delivered Lunch Program" co-authored with Josephine K. Caldwell and W. O. Caster. This describes the types and amounts of foods consumed by older persons in addition to those provided by the Meals on Wheels Program. It points out that couples eat reasonably well but that some of the single individuals have little more than crackers and milk to supplement the hot lunch brought in at noon, and some are in serious difficulty over the weekends when the lunch program is not operating.

Dr. Roy J. Martin has conducted a series of very fundamental studies in obesity which concern the metabolism and formation of adipose tissue. Six of his students will be presenting papers.

Dr. Gary Hausman, A Post-Doctoral Fellow, will present the paper "Cellular and Vascular Development in Rat Adipose Tissue: An Integrated Phenomenon" by G. J. Hausman, D. R. Campion, L. R. Richardson and R. J. Martin. In the first three to five days of life there is a two- to three-fold increase in fat cell size. The first noticeable change is the formation of long cords of cells that ultimately become small arteries and veins. A secondary change relates to the formation of clusters of tightly packed cells which form at right angles along these developing vessels. Most cells appear to form an integral function in relation to both of these structures.

Frank Morrow will present the paper "Isolation of Hepatic Fatty Acid Binding Protein Components" co-authored with R. J. Martin. The body is largely water and the metabolism of fatty acids and other insoluble substances requires an understanding of how these materials are handled and transported in an aqueous medium. Within the cell there is a fatty acid binding protein. This work reports the isolation and separation of this protein. There are evidences of two distinct components each having a molecular weight of about 12,400—but the two have quite different chemical characteristics.

John McNamara will present the paper "In Utero Regulation of Adipose Lipoprotein Lipoase" jointly authored with G. J. Hausman, D. R. Campion and R. J. Martin. The formation of adipose tissue in fetal life is strongly controlled by pituitary hormones. This study carried out in pigs demonstrates for the first time that pituitary hormones can have a major effect during pregnancy on adipose tissue enzyme development.

Tom Kasser will be presenting the paper "Adipose Development in Hypothyroid Rat" by T. R. Kasser, G. J. Hausman and R. J. Martin. Propylthiouracil inhibits the thyroid hormone formation. Using this it was possible to demonstrate that thyroid hormone has a major effect upon adipose tissue metabolism in the last few days of fetal life and in the first few days following birth.

Michael Azain will present the paper "The Effect of Dietary Alteration on Adipose Cell Metabolism, Cell Size, and Plasma Membrane Composition" by M. J. Azain, R. Makula, T. Ramsay, H. R. Maga and R. J. Martin. Fat cells were isolated from adipose tissue and studied in a medium containing radioactive glucose. This allowed the study of metabolic functions within the cells. The nature of this metabolism and the way in which it responded to certain hormones was quite different depending on the type of diet that was fed to the animals from which the adipose was obtained. The major differences were seen between the high fat diet and the high starch diets.

Ms. Holly Maga will present the paper "The Effect of Varying Levels of Dietary Polyunsaturated Fatty Acids on Fetal and Postnatal Growth and Development in Rats" by H. R. Maga, I. Kircher, C. Wolfe and R. J. Martin. Much has been said about the polyunsaturated fatty acids but this work seems to suggest that under properly controlled conditions, the nature of the fat in the maternal diet has relatively little effect upon body weight or other factors measured. At extreme levels the polyunsaturated fatty acids may depress growth.

Dr. Peifer will be presenting two papers. One of these "Nutritional Biochemical Assessment of Preadolescent Girls in the South" by J. J. Peifer, F. Thye, T. Wakefield, R. Lewis, L. Quattrochi, H. McCoy, H. Lewis, G. Disney, O. Adams, S. Stallings and P. Shilling reports an Experiment Station Project carried out in eight Southern states. They present a series of measurements obtained from nine-year-old girls from both low- and middle-income groups and black and white families in or near urban areas. The data suggest that less than three percent of these girls showed any evidence of nutrient deficiencies. Dr. Peifer will also present the paper "Phosphatidyl Choline-Polyunsaturated Fatty Acid Changes in Soy Protein-Vitamin B<sub>12</sub>-Deprived Rats" by J. J. Peifer and Jeff N. Morgan. Data show that liver phospholipid levels were 30–33% higher in soy protein fed rats than in casein fed rats. Supplements of methionine promoted up to a 60% reduction in triglycerides together with a 20–26% reduction in cholesterol and total lipid in the liver.

Dr. Marian Wang will be reporting the work "Dihydropteridine Reductase Activity and Phenylalanine Hydroxylase Cofactor Concentration in Chronically Uremic Rats" by W. Wang and Marcia M. Griffith. One of the changes seen in uremia is a decrease in the tendency for phenylalanine to be converted to tyrosine. Some workers have suggested that this is due to a reduced activity of the enzyme that carries out this oxidative step. There is a tetrahydropteridine cofactor that is required by this enzyme and any alteration in its level or availability could change the rats of this reaction. The results of the experiments reported here indicate that there is nothing the matter with the cofactor regeneration in chronic renal failure. Thus, some other mechanism must be operating.

HIGHLIGHTS from Child and Family Development

Assistant Professor Karen S. Wampler has been awarded a $1,900 grant from the patent and copyright Research Fund through the Office of the Vice President for Research. The grant will support work on Dr. Wampler's research project entitled, Development of a Measure of Dyadic Communication.

The Ph.D. program in Child and Family Development which was launched in September 1976, with five students enrolled, now has twenty-five students. The first four students to earn the Ph.D. in Child and Family Development now hold excellent positions in Kansas, Ohio, Alabama, and Georgia.

HIGHLIGHTS from Home Economics Education

Home Economics Education Department is conducting three in-service workshops sponsored by the State Department of Education. Thirteen post-secondary teachers are enrolled in the Displaced Homemaker Workshop being conducted by Dr. Fannie Lee Boyd. Seventeen teachers are participating in a workshop to increase articulation between post-secondary and secondary child care occupational programs that is being conducted by Dr. Sue Sumner. All first year home economics teachers were invited to participate in two day-long conferences conducted by Dr. Mary Jim Combs and Dr. Sue Sumner; 27 attended the fall meeting.

Two graduate courses were offered Fall quarter with 20 enrolled in Evaluation taught by Dr. Aleene Cross and 20 in The Family taught by Dr. Jack Balswick. In addition, 20 School Food and Nutrition Supervisors were enrolled in an internship directed by Dr. Fannie Lee Boyd.

Dr. Aleene Cross, who is chairing a national legislative task force for vocational consumer and homemaking education, presented the ten issues and recommendations identified by the task force at the annual meeting of the American Vocational Association in Anaheim, California, in December. She has also written a position paper based on these recommendations that will be used with members of Congress in the reauthorization process for Vocational Education. Special emphasis is being given to three socio-economic concerns: energy, nutrition, and parenting. Three additional position papers are being prepared; Dr. Ann Rackley Willett (Kentucky) is writing the paper on energy education.

Dr. Cross edited the 1980 AVA Yearbook and presented the first copy to the AVA President at the annual meeting in Anaheim.

HIGHLIGHT on New Extension Staff

Ms. Holly Alley joined the Cooperative Extension Staff in November as Home Economist with the Expanded Food and Nutrition Program. Ms. Alley received a Masters in Nutrition from Purdue. She recently worked for three years with the Peace Corps in Brazil and Chile.

A SALUTE TO . . .

Dorothy Bouillon, graduate student with Dr. Berdanier in the College of Home Economics. Her research paper "Effect of Adrenalectomy and Starvation-Refeeding on the Diurnal Variation in Hepatic Glycogen Levels" was one of twenty papers selected for presentation at the spring annual meeting of the American Institute of Nutrition. There is strong nationwide competition and Ms. Bouillon is the first UGA student to receive this honor. She will be awarded a $200.00 travel grant.

Dorothy has a perfect 4.0 grade point average in her graduate work in Home Economics at the University of Georgia. She received her M.S. degree in Foods and Nutrition last June and is continuing her research activities with Dr. Berdanier. Ms. Bouillon, the recipient of the Hazel and Gene Franklin Scholarship award for 1978-79, has been recognized by the Georgia Chapter of Blue Key National Honor Society and is an Associate Member of Sigma Xi National Scientific Honorary Society. She has her BSHE degree (cum laude) from Ohio State University.

XIV Congress of International Federation of Home Economics—July 20-26

The Georgia Home Economics Association is promoting a group tour to the International Congress in the Philippines. Tentative plans are to leave the West Coast on July 10 and return on July 26. The itinerary will include two nights each in Singapore, Bangkok, and Hong Kong with the remainder of the time being spent in Manila at the Congress. Cost from the West Coast will be under $2,000. If you are interested, contact Carolyn Joyner at Georgia Extension Service, Hoke Smith Annex, Athens, Georgia 30602, 404/542-3671.

The theme of the Congress, "Home Economics, a Responsible Partner in Development," will draw attention to the areas where home economics is involved. Special emphasis will be given to agricultural and industrial development and its effects on individual and family life. Included in this Congress will be research projects, round-table discussions, visits to homes of home economists, special speakers, as well as pre- and post-Congress seminars and courses.

IN MEMORIAM . . .

Dr. Betty White Bailey (BSHE '40, MSHE '44) died at her residence in Athens on October 22, 1979. Dr. Bailey joined the faculty of the University of Georgia College of Home Economics in 1961. She retired as an associate professor in 1976. Dr. Bailey served as president of the Georgia Home Economics Association during 1968-70.

Mrs. V. Eugene Franklin (Hazel Smith) (BSHE '32) died October 3, 1979, in Savannah. Mrs. Franklin had been actively involved in the Home Economics Alumni Association and was a member of the Awards Committee. She and her husband established the Hazel and Gene Franklin Scholarship Fund in the College of Home Economics. Mrs. Franklin may be remembered from "Hazel Franklin's Kitchen," the television show she conducted in Savannah.

Virginia Whigham Harris (BSHE '44) died of cancer in January 1979. Virginia lived in Bradley and worked with Family and Children Services.

Home Economics Alumni Weekend Program Participants

Banquet Speaker:

Dr. Charles R. Gruner is Professor of Speech Communication at the University of Georgia. He offers courses in speech communication, the psychology of speech communication, and quantitative research methodology in speech communication. Professor Gruner received his B.S. and M.S. from Southern Illinois University and his Ph.D. from Ohio State University. His most recent book Understanding Laughter was the winner of the 1979 Golden Anniversary Prize Fund book award.

Seminar Speakers:

The persons making presentations during the seminar on Saturday represent the four departments in the College of Home Economics.

Each is involved in research, teaching and service activities in their respective departments.

Dr. Carolyn D. Berdanier is Professor and Head of the Department of Foods and Nutrition. Dr. Berdanier came to the University of Georgia from the Department of Medicine and Biochemistry at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine. She received her B.S. from Pennsylvania State and the M.S. and Ph.D. from Rutgers University.

Dr. Sharon Price-Bonham is Associate Professor of Child and Family Development and Sociology. Prior to coming to the College of Home Economics faculty in 1973, she was Assistant Professor of Sociology at Tulsa University. Dr. Price-Bonham received a B.S. from MacMurray College, and the M.S. and Ph.D. from Iowa State.

Dr. Joseph G. Painter, Jr., is Assistant Professor of Housing, Family Management and Consumer Economics. Dr. Painter's primary interest is in the area of Consumer Economics. He joined the faculty in 1977 after completing a Ph.D. at the University of Tennessee. Dr. Painter received a B.S. from Virginia Polytechnic Institute. He, also, has an M.S.S.W. from the University of Tennessee.

Dr. Theresa A. Perenich is Associate Professor and Head of the Department of Clothing, Textiles, Interiors and Furnishings. Prior to her appointment at the University of Georgia in 1977, Dr. Perenich was Head of the Department of Clothing, Textiles, and Interiors at Kansas State University. Dr. Perenich received her B.S. from Fordham and her M.S. and Ph.D. from Florida State University.

Dr. Emily Quinn Pou, Dean of the College of Home Economics, will serve as moderator of the seminar session. Dr. Pou has provided leadership as Dean of the College of Home Economics since 1971. She received the B.S. from the Georgia College for Women and the M.S. and Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin. Prior to coming to the University, Dean Pou was Professor of Education and State Leader of Training at North Carolina State.

HIGHLIGHTS from Your Association

Magazine Sale . . . The Association cleared $71.07 from the fall magazine sale. Don't forget to renew your subscriptions through the Association at the annual meeting. Forty percent of the proceeds are returned to the Association. These funds are being earmarked for redecorating the lounge in Dawson Hall.

Bylaw Change . . . The Executive Committee recommends that Article IV, Section 2 of the Bylaws be changed from: "Officers shall be elected by the membership not less than three months prior to the annual business meeting. The election shall be by mail ballot which must be submitted to the membership one month before the final election date" to "Officers shall be elected by the membership by mail ballot. The ballot shall be submitted to the membership at least 60 days prior to the annual meeting and returned to the nominating committee 30 days prior to the annual meeting." Be prepared to vote on this change at the annual business meeting.

Fund Drive . . . When you receive your annual fund pledge card from the University of Georgia Alumni Society there are four designations available for gifts to the College of Home Economics. You may designate all or part of your annual contribution to these four funds. Indicate the name of the fund on the pledge card and write on your check the name of the fund.

1. You may simply designate your gift to Home Economics. These funds support the activities of the Home Economics Alumni Association as well as other categories of expenditures not fundable from state funds. If you wish to contribute to this fund, make your check to University of Georgia Foundation.
2. Funds may be designated for the Mary Creswell Fund. Funds contributed will be added to the principal. The interest has, as of this year, reached $1,000. The dollars available this year will be expended in support of graduate students presenting papers at national meetings who are not otherwise supported. If you wish to contribute to this fund, make your check to University of Georgia Foundation.
3. Another fund you may designate is the Home Economics Emergency Loan Fund available to students in the College of Home Economics for short term loans. If you wish to contribute to this fund, make your check to University of Georgia.
4. The other designation which may be made is the Home Economics Development Fund, a fund which permits Dean Pou to fund discretionary expenditures not provided for in other funds. If you wish to contribute to this fund, make your check payable to University of Georgia Foundation.

Any contribution you make to the funds strengthens the College of Home Economics in helping do things that otherwise could not be done and gets an income tax deduction for you at the same time.

HIGHLIGHTS from the Georgia Center

The two Home Economics Program Specialists in Continuing Education announce several programs to be offered during the spring of 1980. If you have requests for information on any of the programs, contact Wanda Grogan or Trudy Cain, 241-A Georgia Center for Continuing Education, Athens, Georgia 30602 or telephone 404/542-5654.

February 18-20, 1980—Metabolic and Nutritional Aspects of Renal and Hepatic Diseases—Athens, Georgia

The symposium is sponsored with the Department of Foods and Nutrition and the School of Pharmacy. Scientists such as Dr. Gary Evans, Dr. Hans Fisher, Dr. Richard Freedland, Dr. Robert H. Herman, Dr. James M. Long, Dr. Dale Romsos, and Dr. Robert Suskind are among those invited to make presentations. Proceedings will be published.

February 26-27, 1980—Georgia Nutrition Council Annual Conference—Athens, Georgia

The theme for the program is "World Food Population Crisis" and focuses upon the problem of international population—malnutrition trends and possible solutions of nutrition education, agricultural technology and food policy and politics. Speakers will include Dr. Melinda Mead, Dr. Barbara Underwood, Dr. D. W. Brooks and Mr. Phil Campbell, plus other local nutritionists.

March 1, 1980—Occupational Child Care Teachers' Inservice Program—Athens, Georgia

Focus of the program will be upon teaching techniques in the child care program at the secondary and post-secondary level.

March 4, 6, 7, 1980—Time Management—Athens (4th), Tifton (6th), Rome (7th)

Rita Davenport of Phoenix, Arizona, will conduct these seminars, which are co-sponsored by the Georgia Home Economics Association. This innovative seminar offers a new perspective on how to eliminate stress and anxiety caused by pressure of time management problems.

April 1, 1980—Interior Design Seminar—Atlanta

A day at the Atlanta Decorative Arts Center for home economists in education, business and extension.

April 8-10, 1980—Georgia Homemakers Council Annual Meeting—Athens

April 17-18, 1980—Spouse Abuse Conference—Athens

The conference is designed for persons whose work or day-to-day contacts bring them together with others involved with the problem of spouse abuse. A primary focus of the conference will be the abuser—how to reach and how to counsel.

May 9-10, 1980—Georgia Association of Young Children—Athens

Annual meeting of the GAYC designed for members of the association and others who are working with young children.

May 12-13, 1980—Obesity a Big Problem—Athens

Workshop is designed for dietitians, food service consultants in education and medical facilities, educators, extension agents, food technologists, pharmacists, doctors, nurses and others. Outstanding speakers will include Dr. Kitty Coffey, Carson Newman College, Dr. Reva Frankle, Weight Watchers International, Dr. Ann Sullivan, Hoffman LaRoche and other local faculty. Focus will be on Cultural/Anthropological Aspects of Obesity, Stress and Obesity, Weight Control and Sensory Perception of Food.

HIGHLIGHTS from the Alumni

J. Cynthia Bruce (MS '79) is Administrative Coordinator for the Athens Unit of the Georgia Retardation Center. She was elected to membership in Phi Kappa Phi in 1979.

Elizabeth A. Butler (BSHE '74) assumed an administrative position January 1980 at the Albert P. Brewer Developmental Center in Mobile, Alabama. She received her ME from the University of South Alabama in 1979.

Betty Campbell (MEd, EdS) is Director of the Atlanta Area Vocational Technical School. Betty is the only female serving in this capacity in the Southeast. She formerly taught home economics and was a vocational supervisor.

Frances Champion (BSHE '30) retired in 1969 from the Florida State Department of Education and lives in Darlington, South Carolina. Ms. Champion was co-author of Teen Guide to Homemaking. She states that she is enjoying her hobbies and has had 22 overseas trips, visiting 88 countries.

Susan Lee Cobb (BSHE '76) was selected "Most Outstanding 4-H Agent" for the Georgia East Extension District for 1979. Susan is Extension Home Economist for Wilkes County.

Mildred Huff Coleman (BSHE '65) is writing a cookbook entitled "Frances-Virginia Tea Room" with aunt Agnes New who was a former part owner and tea room dietitian. If you have any stories, memories, requests for recipes, old menus or photos from the Tea Room, please share them with Mildred at: 2065 Springdale Dr. NW, Atlanta, Georgia 30305.

Jeanie D. Doss was recently promoted to Assistant Professor in the Home Economics Department at Abraham Baldwin College in Tifton.

Bron B. Ingoldsbey (PhD '79) is Assistant Professor of Individual and Family Development at Kent State University, Ohio.

Jonell H. Kirby (BS '52, MEd '57, EdD '65) is Professor of Counseling and Guidance at West Virginia College of Graduate Studies, Institute, West Virginia. Dr. Kirby has recently published the book Second Marriage which is available through Accelerated Development, Inc., Muncie, Indiana.

Patricia L. Koester (BSHE '78) is Home Economist Sales Counselor for Microwave Cooking Etc., Vienna, Virginia. She was number two salesperson out of 38 stores.

Jane M. (Janie) Lamb (BSHE '68) received a PhD from the University of Tennessee in 1978 and is presently working at the University of Delaware as Assistant Professor in the Department of Textiles, Design and Consumer Economics.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION AWARDS

At the annual business meeting in November, the criteria for four awards were approved. The Friend of Home Economics, Superior Service and Distinguished Alumni Awards will be presented during the Home Economics Alumni Weekend, May 2-3, 1980. The Honor Hall of Recognition Award will be announced during Homecoming Weekend, 1980. YOU are invited to nominate individuals for the awards. Review the eligibility and nomination criteria and make your nominations!

Honor Hall of Recognition

Eligibility: Individuals nominated to be entered in the Honor Hall of Recognition will be selected from deceased alumni, or deceased University System employees who served as a professional leader in Home Economics with distinction. The award will be presented on an annual basis if a suitable recipient is nominated. The first award will be presented during Homecoming Weekend, 1980.

Nomination: Submit a nomination not to exceed three typed pages describing the nominee's contribution to Home Economics, citing the impact of the work. Supporting documentation including copies of brochures, letters, and other information should be included. Nominations should be received by the committee by September 15, 1980. The following outline should be used:

- A. What was done that deserves recognition:
1. Was it unique? A new approach or effort? How?
  2. What was the impact of the achievement? Was it local, multi-county, state, national, or all?
  3. How did the contribution improve, or further Home Economics?
  4. Awards, honor, and recognition received in her, or his field of work.
- B. Leadership activities and offices held.

Friend of Home Economics Award

Eligibility: An individual having contributed to strengthening or enhancing the College of Home Economics at the University of Georgia may be considered for the Friend of Home Economics Award. Alumni of the College of Home Economics are not eligible for consideration for this award. Nominees must not be presently employed by the University System of Georgia. Service as an employee of the University System is not considered in determining the person to receive the award. The recipient of the award must be living. The award will be presented on an annual basis if a suitable recipient is nominated. This award will be presented on May 2, 1980.

Nomination: Submit a nomination, not to exceed three typed pages, describing the nominee's contribution to Home Economics, citing the impact of the work.
